Re: I support the Merger of Sirius & XM

Dear FCC:

To whom it may concern,

I am both a customer and stock holder of Sirius. I have long believed that both Sirius and XM would function better as one entity, given the costs of operations, nearly redundant programming (excluding sports), and most importantly, competition from terrestrial radio, iPods and the like.

I can tell you that Satellite radio, as a whole is in competition against other types of media, and I will explain why. In my car, I can choose to have presets. I can preset for terrestrial and/or Satellite. I have chosen all Satellite stations.

In my wife's new car, she had to choose between an iPod jack or having Sirius. She chose Sirius. Had she chosen iPod, she could not have Sirius in her car without purchasing a 3rd-party, after-market radio.

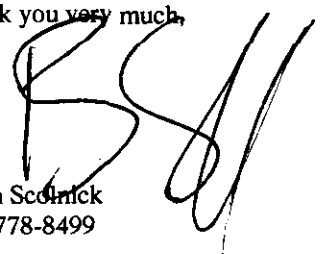

If the biggest concern is a monopoly, why is the FCC not letting me choose for myself? If prices do in fact rise, I am not opposed to paying a few dollars more. I love Satellite radio and for the content I am receiving, I believe I am getting entertained for pennies.

I am in love with Satellite Radio. If I can broaden my experience by supporting the merger, then I support it. If I can selfishly see to it that Satellite Radio remains in existence because there is a profit from merging (rather than bleeding money), I support the merger.

I wholeheartedly believe that prices will drop and only good things will come from the merger.

I urge you to support and approve the merger, even if you must do so conditionally and subject to specific, realistic, criteria which the new company must abide by.

Thank you very much,
